

Declaration of Independence

There will be a time when a new generation of students are needing to be heard by those who have authority over them. When the voices of those under the authority is suppressed by those in the authority positions that there should be changes made to better the communication between the two groups. For such a thing to happen there should be a consensus between the two groups to agree upon new reasons to begin to coexist within the new statements made at the consensus.

We, the teenagers that carry the future of the United States of America, do believe that everyone should be treated equal under the law and with no distinction between age, gender, or race of any sort or context. For when those in authority do not take into consideration the greater good of those they hold power over, that there should be a change made to guarantee that the greater good prevails. For this greater good to happen certain understanding between the two parties need to be established to make a concrete starting point for further understanding between the two. This is no call to remove all established order, but to better the order for the changing times and to help those in power to understand what those under truly need to create a better future for them and those to come. Or should we just keep the same old ways not evolving towards the future? We demand for our opinions to be heard, for the acceptance of us having equal intelligence, for the understanding of our ways for the future, and for things to change to help us make a life for ourselves and not the pre existing template that we have been forced to follow, but a new path that we may trod. For our future should we just leave it to those older than us and not listen to our own voice? We, as equal human beings, under the law would like to have the forsaid rights and to have the actual authority that we should already have to make our own lives for the betterment of our future. To prove that many of the such understanding that was there and isn't anymore may they be submitted to let the greater world than just the surrounding be learned of these truths.

For the truth that those in authority no longer listen to the cries of complaints that happen right in front of their eyes. Those who are so brave to petition for change end up being utterly rejected with the note of "You don't know what you are talking about." I have been one of those brave souls unjustly forced to leave after trying to change things for the better. It hurts to be rejected by those you respect and to have to walk away with nothing to show for all your effort. For when this happens those that petitioned felt the need to change because of the direct effect that the pre existing order clashed with new interests that have evolved from that pre existing order into something new for the future.

For the truth to have a say in deciding the classes and activities we do. Which means some activities should be counted as more than just an activity. Some of those activities or classes we shouldn't even be forced to do. We are forced to study things we already know and do not help us better out future. These activities should show we already have those skills to pass that class . Where the truths that will thoroughly thread our timeline to be allowed to grow when we choose new classes that we need to actively learn and not apathetically participate due to us already knowing how to do those activities.

For the truth to have a voice heard by those in high position of power in many different governments either near or far from those who need to have a voice. For when we who need our voices heard hear of new conflicts and new destructive activities by said government should be meet with a force of thousands of voices crying "No" for those activities or conflicts that ruin our future for the greed of those in power and not for the betterment of our country's future.

For the truth that we are still learning our ways and truly need help and not the condemnation that happens when something goes wrong. We are young and should be regarded as not having the same life wisdom of someone who has lived over three times our life when we do something that those who watch disagree with. We still want a voice, but need help learning what is correct for us and activities that are socially correct. Those who disagree with our activities are welcome to teach us a proper way of the activity, but this does not mean that we will lose our sense of self. This should be a growing activity so when we become adults we can carry on the legacy of those before us rather than be confused at why they did certain things or choices that were made that we now understand due to the teaching of those who made those decisions.

For the truth that to learn effectively need ideas need to used and practiced. For the constriction of credits that need to be filled should be allowed to be filled with club and sport activities that have a better purpose for those who need the credits. Those in sports that run through the school or outside of the school with proper acknowledgement from those in authority to have a reason to have that credit shown that they have completed the requirements for the credit. That credit will save both time and the effort of the person in the activity to pick more suited classes so the betterment of their future is given more preference than the fact that they have already had more than enough of experience in that area to advance to the next class or activity.

For the truth that phones are not the cause of distractions if certain restrictions are in place. Phones are a needed convenience for some people to know whether or not something has happened to cause an emergency or a joyous event that has happened that they need to notified immediately. Many times having a phone can save someone is a dangerous situation. This would be for safety for the students and the other people in that situation that requires a phone. The restrictions that are in place do not allow for the comfort of knowing that if something happens we have a voice to call out for help or if an emergency happens to contact those that need to know.

For the truth that anyplace that offers food either for free or for a price should have certain qualifications to be served for human consumption. For this to happen the needed facts of what is healthy or not, is it over priced or not, or if it is just something thrown together in a flash to satisfy the crowd and not the individual. The forced fast processing of food meant for consumption in many places should be focused on what is good for the individual and not the fact they have to feed a group.

For the truth that anything that is reported as news should be not transferred to a sugar coated speech and that we be given the truth if we so ask for it. For that truth could mean that we judge something wrongly and then make our opinions know that do not connect with the true details, but instead connect with the details we were given. Those that try to make news easier to digest are just making it harder for those who wish to learn more about the events to go into research of those events in the wrong fashion and to have conflicting details having to choose from one over the other. To have a true look on the world those sugar coated stories should be reported fact to fact instead of facts that have been changed so those whose minds are not “ready” do not read them.

For the truth that all people are different and have been raised differently in different environments that do contribute to different values and beliefs. To allow acceptance in the face of diversity and to not push ideals you believe from your parents or what your opinions are on certain events onto those who already have their own opinion of those events. For those who have different appearances, feeling, mind set, or any other difference compared to you is exactly what they are looking at you with instead of just a one way occurrence. This is a change started in that environment you are raised in by those who raise you who do not have the right to force upon you their opinions which you should get to choose for yourself.

For the truth that anyone should be allowed a position in power if they have the right qualifications to hold that position. For those that have tried to get into those positions have in many times been forced to slink away for the fact that those who won had more money or more connections in the right place, but not the actual ability to hold that position. Those who truly deserve those positions and truly do show the ability to be in the position should have proper say in how that position is chosen not just the facts that those who are better off get that position.

In all those places that these truths not be evident in their correct way to be changed so that the future is better than the past. Many of those who ask for the change have not been accepted with their view and should be allowed to have their opinions heard by those in authority positions. For those that have declined to hear these grievances are those who are acting like tyrants which shows that they do not hold the correct mindset of those in power where they should be gracious enough to hear the changes people think need to be made. We have in many times told them of their tyranny. We have in many times told them of unequal rights that have been put forth. We have in many times told them of many wrongdoings of others where we ourselves take the blame. We shall no longer stand for this oppression of those acting like tyrants and now make our voices heard by those in authority to create the future we want and what everyone needs.

We, therefore, the teens of the United States of America, would like the rectitude of this document to not go to waste, for which we do solemnly declare. That as the future is coming upon us, we have the right to ask for the changes stated in this document to show that we as equal people in this country. For the support of this declaration, we, with firm reliance on the realization that this is the truth, do pledge to uphold the truths for now and the future.
